Media Statement:

The Laminex Group: Focused on rebuilding effort in wake of Queensland flood crisis

In the wake of the unexpected and unprecedented flood crisis, The Laminex Group has turned its focus to the significant task of rebuilding.

Our thoughts are with all those who have experienced great loss as a result of the recent flood emergency in Queensland and similar flood events across the eastern seaboard.

There are countless communities affected and it is of our utmost priority to work with our customers in the important task of rebuilding their businesses and communities.

According to The Laminex Group, the majority of enquiries from customers in the flood-affected areas have been focused on product supply as communities start the clean up in a bid to move on from this crisis.

We are doing everything within our control to get product to our customers in order to help get Queensland back on its feet and want to assure customers that our production plants are fully operational.

We are working closely with our suppliers and transport companies nationwide to ensure adequate supply of raw materials to our plants and increasing stocks in our distribution centres and branch network to cater for our customers requirements. We are very optimistic that any disruptions to supply will be minimal.

With safety a primary concern for The Laminex Group, the business is pleased to report that all staff and contractors in the flood-affected areas remain safe and that there has been no loss or damage to its plants and branches.

The Laminex encourages all Australians who wish to provide financial assistance to do so via the Premier's Flood Relief Appeal: <http://www.qld.gov.au/floods/donate.html>

We look forward to working with our customers in the QLD recovery program.

Customers should contact their local Branch on 132 136 for any questions regarding product supply and availability.
